The world's libraries.
Connected.

Did you know...

Every day...

A stylized map of the United States in blue, set against a dark blue background. The map includes Alaska and Hawaii, which are shown as insets. The text "300,000 Americans" is overlaid on the map.

It's in our wallets

Library cards are about as prevalent as credit cards. Two-thirds of Americans have a library card. For many young people, the first card in their wallet is a library card.

On the move

FedEx shipments worldwide: 8 million

U.S. public library circulation: 7.9 million

U.S. public libraries circulate as many materials every day as FedEx ships packages worldwide. We enjoy $82 million of value every day from the materials we check out at libraries.

How libraries stack up: 2010

In America, we go to libraries to...

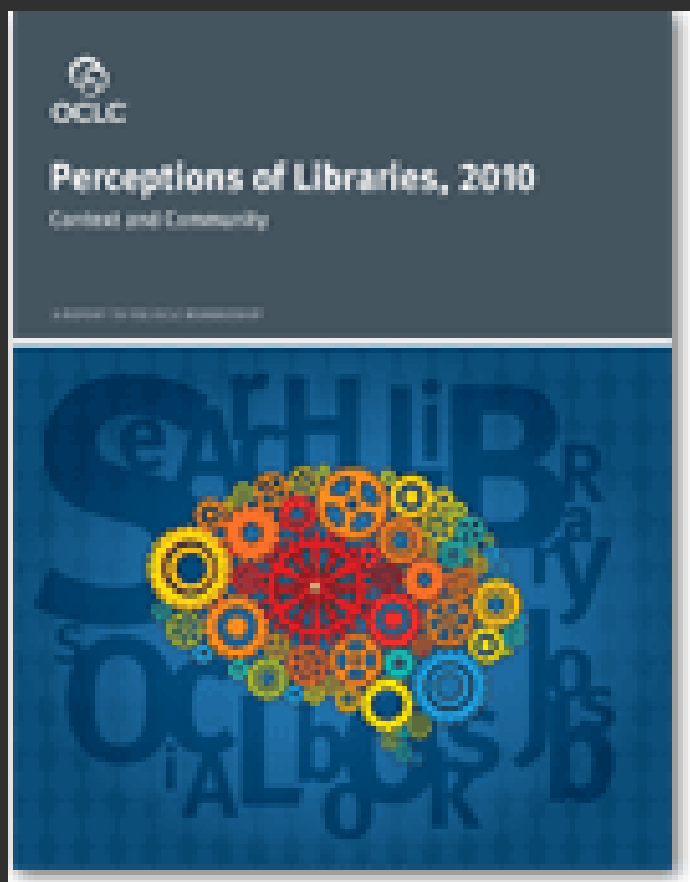

- Find jobs and create careers
- Help grow our small businesses
- Borrow books, journals, music and movies
- Learn to use the latest technology
- Get the tools to reenter the workforce
- Get our questions answered
- Engage in civic activities
- Meet with friends and co-workers
- Improve our skills

Perceptions of Libraries 2010

- Technological and economic shifts since 2005
- Lifestyle changes during the recession, including use of the library and other online resources
- How a change to employment status impacts use and perceptions of the library
- Perceptions of libraries and information resources based on life stage

Geek the Library

An Awareness Campaign for U.S. Public Libraries

What is Geek the Library?

Geek the Library is a community-based public awareness campaign designed to highlight the vital role of public libraries and educate the public about the critical funding issues they face. Materials, resources and support are available to libraries willing to do what it takes to adopt this awareness campaign.

Learn more

Why this Campaign?

Geek the Library can help you tell your library's story, while engaging the public to join the local public library funding discussion. Over time, this campaign can help significantly increase community awareness about the value of the library and how the library is funded—leading to the support your library needs when it counts!

Learn more

What You Need to Know

Before you commit, make sure you understand exactly what's involved in launching a successful campaign. Remember, Geek the Library is designed to work seamlessly within and alongside your current initiatives, but it needs dedicated resources to launch and to maintain momentum.

The screenshot displays the OCLC WorldCat Local website. At the top, the OCLC logo is followed by the tagline 'The world's libraries. Connected.' and a link to 'About OCLC'. Below this is a navigation bar with links for 'WorldCat', 'Membership', 'Products and Services', 'Support and Training', and 'Res'. The main content area is titled 'WorldCat Local : Lists of Content Included : Databases and Collections'. It features a sidebar with a 'Lists of Content Included' menu where 'Databases and Collections' is selected. The main text area is headed 'More than 1,100 familiar collections in one place' and includes a link to 'Download the Databases and Collections list'. A paragraph explains that through WorldCat Local, libraries can provide access to a broad range of content that includes:

- Full databases indexed in the WorldCat Local central index. Our agreements with database publishers give your users fast, easy discovery. Users may search these databases separately or in combination. Your library's access is determined by the subscriptions you maintain to this content.
- Full databases accessible via remote access from a database publisher site. Our agreements with database publishers enable searching of these databases included in single, relevance-ranked set of results along with results from the other databases is determined by the subscriptions you maintain to this content.
- Vendor record sets that have been requested by WorldCat Local libraries. OCLC contacts publishers on behalf of WorldCat Local libraries to obtain agreed vendor records already licensed by these libraries. Vendor records are often located in an OPAC-like experience, similar to what they already see at their library. Other databases, available only to users of subscribing libraries.
- Journal sources included in the WorldCat knowledge base. More than 68 million journal titles are accessible through WorldCat Local due to member libraries; the indexing in WorldCat.org of article-level records from sources like Library Inside Serials, ERIC, MEDLINE, JSTOR, OAIster, PapersFirst, Proquest, and the addition of 5.6 million records into a new knowledge base within WorldCat. OCLC indexes in familiar databases against the ISSNs available through WorldCat.org and with 75 percent or more coverage in WorldCat are included on this Databases and Collections list.

At the bottom of the sidebar, there are four buttons: 'Access recent presentations', 'Register for upcoming Web sessions', 'View recent Web sessions', and 'Subscribe to e-mail updates about WorldCat services'.
